THE MERITORIOUS SERVICE MEDAL
(FIRST OAK LEAF CLUSTER)

TO

ALAN C. SCHNEIDER

Captain Alan C. Schneider distinguished himself in the performance of outstanding service to the United States as Chief, Combat Intelligence Systems Section, Intelligence Systems Branch, Intelligence Systems Division, Directorate of Intelligence, Headquarters Pacific Air Forces, Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, from 6 July 1993 to 30 June 1995. Captain Schneider's superb accomplishments are distinctly responsible for the significant increase in the Pacific Air Force's ability to support the employment of combat air forces. His invaluable foresight and detailed tactical knowledge was the catalyst for the procurement of eight million dollars of critically needed Combat Intelligence Systems. Captain Schneider worked exhaustively to ensure the shortfalls in local area and long haul communications in Korea were properly planned and programmed into Department of Defense communications networks to support Korean-based Pacific Air Force intelligence units and deploying combat air forces. Realizing systems and communications are worthless if the intelligence data needed from outside sources does not arrive in a timely and useful manner, Captain Schneider focused on determining faster ways to obtain releasable intelligence data bases for the Pacific Air Forces. He orchestrated and led the combat air forces and Pacific Command discussions on the need to develop intelligence and operational systems for coalition warfighting. His efforts directly resulted in senior Department of Defense officials approval and funding for the re-engineering of an existing system to produce timely tactical intelligence data base information which could be loaded directly into each of the Service-unique combat systems. The singularly distinctive accomplishments of Captain Schneider reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

Captain Schneider's superior management abilities ensured all 497th Reconnaissance Technical Group imagery intelligence production, was provided to support Operations DESERT SHIELD and DESERT STORM and PROVEN FORCE war fighters. This consisted of 600 separate work requests for production of 106,000 imagery products. As the imagery officer temporarily assigned to the United States Embassy, Turkey, during Operation PROVIDE COMFORT, his personal efforts ensured coalition governments were kept up-to-date on critical information necessary for the successful accomplishment of the humanitarian relief effort to the Kurdish refugees.
