

Illinois 9th U.S. House of Representatives

Core Principles

Promote public policies that result in a safe environment for all.

Value hard work, self-sufficiency, personal responsibility, and giving back to society.

Focus on governing for all and taking care of those who cannot take care of themselves.

Insist that all law-abiding individuals have the right to choose what is best for them and their family.

Support an economic environment that promotes competition, encourages risk-taking, and is free of overburdening taxes and regulations.

Running as an Illinois 9th U.S. House of Representatives candidate provides me with a platform to advocate for my Core Principles and individual positions, as listed on the left and right sides of this page, and to push for significant legislative changes to implement them.

While significant progress has been made in recent years, the Republican Party must continue working diligently to ensure that this momentum is not lost. The changes being made by executive orders at the national level must be solidified in legislation to make it more difficult for them to be reversed.

My time in the military has given me a unique perspective on being part of something much larger than myself. With this perspective, I have consistently added value to every organization I have been a part of, whether through my military and civilian work or volunteer efforts. Now, I want to apply my experiences to become directly involved in the decision-making processes that shape our country.

Ultimately, my decision to run as an Illinois 9th U.S. House of Representatives Candidate stems from a combination of personal ambition, a commitment to public service, and a desire to effect change on a larger scale
